Leaders in Nevada Government and Construction Industry to Host Southern Nevada Construction Worker Safety Roundtable

Discussion to center on worker and job site safety conditions in Southern Nevada

Las Vegas, Nev. – Today, leaders in Nevada Government and the Construction Industry announced the Southern Nevada Construction Worker Safety Roundtable.

The Roundtable, to be held at the Clark County Government Center on Saturday, June 28, 2008 from 11:00 am to 2 pm., will center on worker and job site safety conditions in Southern Nevada.

“We need a public discussion on worker safety issues in Southern Nevada,” said Commissioner Chris Giunchigliani.

“We are looking for people to come forward and give concrete suggestions for ways that local government, state government, and the federal government can make changes to existing laws or ordinances, or propose new laws or ordinances, to help improve worker safety,” continued Giunchigliani.

Those who have agreed to participate as members of the Roundtable discussion are:

- Las Vegas Mayor Oscar Goodman
- Clark County Commissioner Chris Giunchigliani
- Clark County Commission Chairman Rory Reid
- Assembly Majority Leader John Ocegüera
- Senate Minority Leader Steven Horsford
- AGC President Steve Holloway
- Southern Nevada Building & Construction Trades President Rick Johnson

Those wishing to participate in the Roundtable should sign up by calling (702) 455-3503.
This discussion will be open to the public and media.
